PRODUCT LOOKBOOK 2025

LEAD THE WAY

Sustainability is no longer a trend, it's a necessity. More and more people are making conscious choices, reducing waste, and considering their impact on the world. This movement is only growing, and businesses play a crucial role in driving it forward. By featuring Rebottled's circular and eye-catching glassware, your company takes a stand for sustainability while inspiring others to follow. Our products don't just make an impact—they spark conversations. Partnering with us means increased visibility on social media, engagement with eco-conscious customers, and a stronger connection to a greener future. Take the first step. Lead by example. Let's make sustainability the new standard, together.

MEANING BY DESIGN

The shift from a linear to a circular economy is more important than ever. Our drinking glass is more than just a design product — it's a symbol of the movement toward a waste-free world. Every sip serves as a reminder that sustainability is within reach. Your interior, gifts, or space should tell a story—one that creates feelings, sparks conversations, and leaves lasting memories. Our circular design comes to life through the natural colors of our glass, the iconic punt, the subtle dots, and engravings that honor the bottle's original form. These details tell a story of transformation—where waste becomes beauty and design carries meaning. By choosing Rebottled, you actively reduce waste, CO₂ emissions, and energy consumption. Together, we can close the loop—one glass at a time.

OUR MISSION

We are here to change the glass industry. The way bottles are used today needs a radical shift. Every year in Europe, 20 billion wine bottles are discarded after a single use, while deposit-system beer bottles can be reused up to 40 times. That's a waste we can no longer ignore. Our goal? To become the first major high producer of circular glassware. But our mission goes beyond glass—we want to raise awareness of the circular economy and inspire people to use glass differently. At the same time, we are committed to creating meaningful job opportunities for those facing barriers to employment, helping them build a brighter future. Our impact hasn't gone unnoticed. Over the years, we've been recognized by many international news papers and have won multiple awards for our efforts. And this is just the beginning. Let's reshape the system—together.

REBOTTLED FACTORY

At Rebottled, we see waste and talent differently. That vision comes to life in our Rebottled Factory, where we transform empty wine bottles into premium drinking glasses—while also creating meaningful opportunities for people facing barriers to employment. The process begins with collecting and washing discarded wine bottles. Once the labels are removed, we cut the bottles in half, shaping them into drinking glasses. In the final step, we fire-polish each glass to ensure a flawless finish—beautiful to look at and perfect to drink from. But our impact goes beyond glass. In our factory, individuals who have difficulty finding a job enter a development program where they build work ethic, expand their social network, and develop valuable skills. This makes our products eligible for social return, allowing companies to support both circular procurement and social impact by choosing Rebottled glassware. By partnering with us, you don't just buy a product—you invest in a better future.

GLASS STRAWS 4-PACK

Plastic is not biodegradable, meaning every plastic straw used since they were invented in 1938 is still around in some shape or form, leaching toxic chemicals into the water and soil. Our straws are made from borosilicate: this borosilicate glass is extra strong, making it both durable and safe to drink from. So you can use your new glass straws over and over again. Don't contribute to pollution and risk your health by using plastic straws!

[Rebottled's 100% recycled glassware sets a new standard in sustainability, unlike the 99% of glass tableware still using virgin materials. Even traditional recycling relies on 40-60% new glass, but Rebottled eliminates this need entirely. This reduces CO₂ emissions, saves energy, and conserves natural resources. By repurposing waste glass, Rebottled supports a truly circular economy. The future of glass isn't just recycled—it's 100% recycled, closing the loop for a more sustainable world.]
